

Futu Responds to Media Report

October 15, 2021

HONG KONG, Oct. 15, 2021 (GLOBE NEWSWIRE) -- Futu Holdings Limited ("Futu" or the "Company") (Nasdaq: FUTU), a tech-driven online brokerage and wealth management platform in China, today noted that a certain Chinese media outlet questioned the ability of certain online brokers, including the Company, to handle Chinese investors' personal data for cross-border trading of stocks in accordance with the requirements of China's Personal Information Protection Law (the "PIPL"), which will come into force on November 1, 2021. In response to the media report, Futu reiterated that regarding the rectification opinions put forward by the "Special Task Force on the Regulation of Apps" in July 2019, Futu contacted the Task Force immediately thereafter and had completed all the rectification work in satisfaction of the relevant opinions and regulatory requirements by August 2, 2019.

Futu also emphasized that since its founding, it has made the protection of personal information and data its top priority. The Company has been strictly complying with applicable laws and regulations, and maintained regular self-inspection to ensure compliance. Futu has also engaged external law firms and professional cybersecurity teams to conduct regular cybersecurity studies, examinations and inspections so as to optimize its systems and boost its risk prevention capabilities. Regarding the PIPL and other Chinese laws and regulations on data protection, Futu has always been closely monitoring the latest regulatory developments and optimizing its compliance practices. Futu is subject to similar data and privacy protection requirements in other markets in which the Company operates, including the United States and Singapore. The Company has always been, and will continue, actively communicating with regulators, strengthening internal training to enhance employee's awareness on personal information protection, and honing its capabilities of safeguarding personal information.
